Foreword.

ODESTLY soliciting the indulgence of our readers for whatever shortcomings may appear in this little volume, we are herewith presenting "The Chief" for 1920.

Without intending any disparagement to our predecessors, who acquitted themselves with signal credit by their splendid achievements, both in a literary and mechanical sense, we have undertaken a few changes, trusting they will not detract from the high standard that has been fixed through the earnest and conscientious effort of those, who have heretofore assumed the task of editing our school annual.

Among the alterations we have essayed is a new color scheme. We believe that the mere liberal spirit of co-operation and good will that puts upon us the imperative responsibility of more active and more sympathetic support, not only on the part of the classes but the individual student as well. To this end and in the hope of further encouraging its development, we have embodied in our Annual the colors of the school rather than the colors of our class as had been the custom in former years.

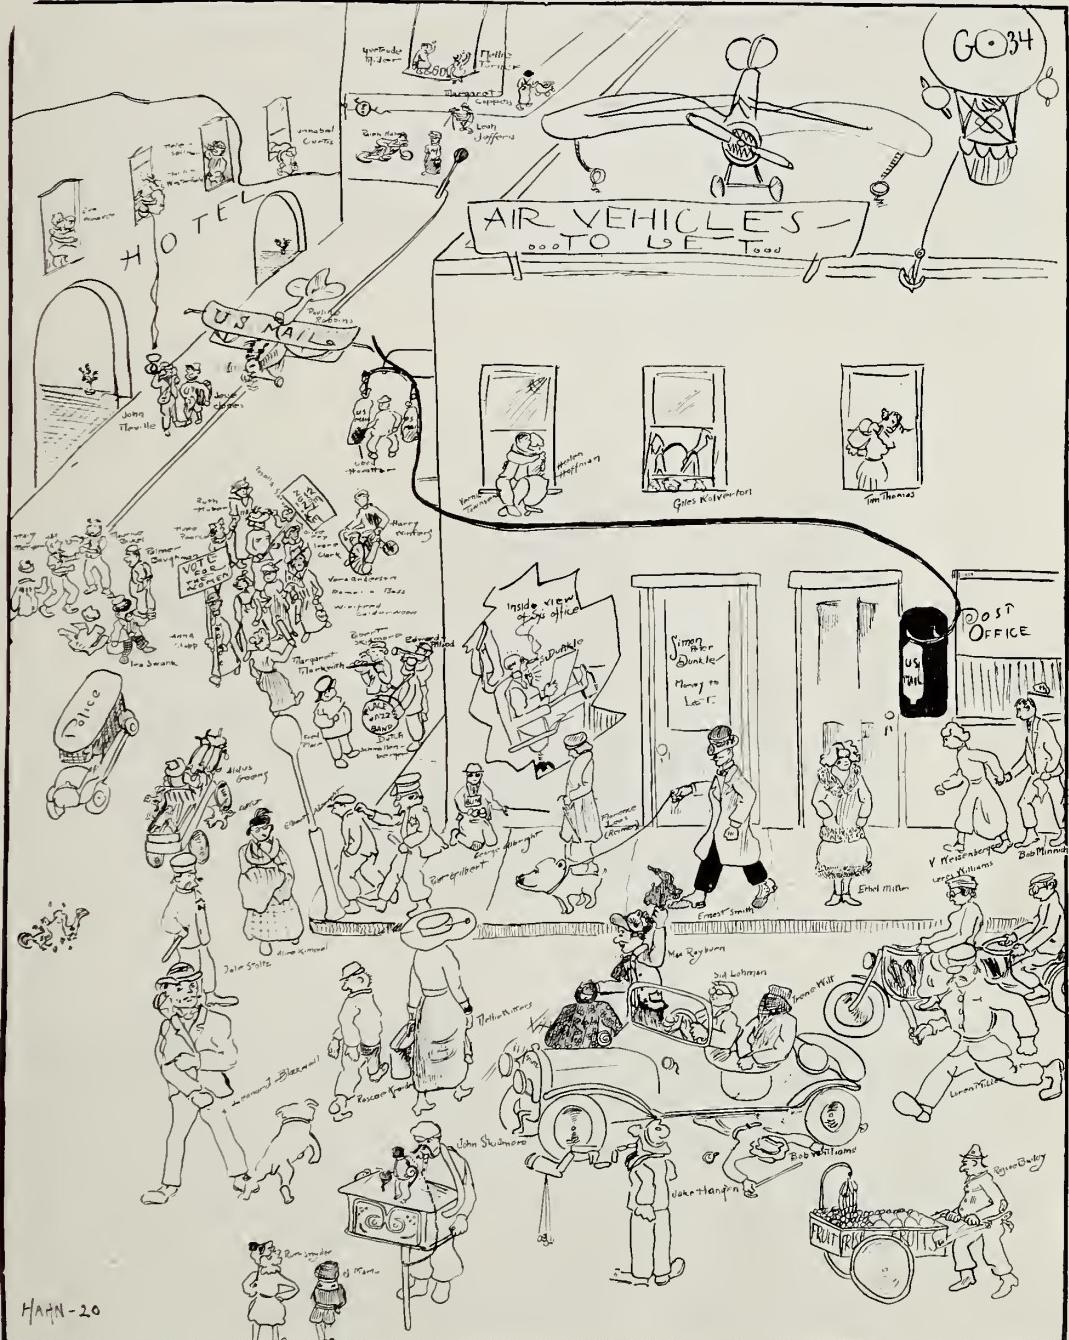

As an evidence of our appreciation of the splendid results they have obtained and as an expression of our gratitude for the substantial service they have rendered in carrying the standard of the Greenville High School well to the front in athletics as well as in educational activity, we have inserted the individual photographs of the members of our football and basketball teams.

We have likewise endeavored to make this volume more attractive by adding to the number of stories it contains and the illustrations printed upon its pages. The special snap shots were taken by Leonard Blackwell. The monogram as a personal device for stationary and advertising uses has been cleverly developed into what is called the kalogram, which enlarging on the idea of the monogram includes all the letters of a name arrayed decoratively. The kalograms were designed in the Art Class of G. H. S. by Fred Earhart. The monograms at the head of each page were designed by Fred Place, Vernie Townsend, John Rush and Wilhelmina Lohman.

We have also tried to make this volume more attractive by adding to the number of stories it contains and the illustrations printed upon its pages. We feel a freindly appreciation for the numerous advertisements which are in great part responsible for making our book more complete.

In presenting this little book, therefore, we are cherishing the hope that it may in future years become a pleasant reminder of happy days.

The Spirit of 1920.

The war ended well, and the world is better than before, for "All's well that ends well." Are we doing what we can to improve the situation? Great opportunities confront us. Are we trying to grasp them? As true Americans, we can say that we are.

Education seems to be the answer to our cry for help. Many are flocking to this resort. They see the need of preparation for broader service. The world is seeking men with greater intellectual abilities. They are going to the high schools, colleges and universities in order to be mentally fit for the greater task. During the war the soldiers needed above all else to be physically fit to fight the nation's battles, but in this reconstruction and advancement period something else is required.

All classes and ages can help in this great task. The old can work to the best of their abilities, and provide means of education for the younger generation. The Christian Churches are faithfully rallying to their standards in creating and enthusiastically supporting the Forward Movement. They are preparing pastors and evangelists to attend to the spiritual needs of the people in order that the world may advance spiritually as well as intellectually. Numbers of wealthy men are giving great sums of money for this cause, but numbers of rich intellectual men are giving more. They are giving their lives, which are more precious than silver or gold. May we not all rally to their standards of righteousness.

But the greatest task of today is that which confronts the industrial world. A couple of million soldiers must be assigned to new tasks; our war industries must be disorganized and peace industries must be organized in their stead; factories which turn out munitions must turn about and manufacture farm machinery and other products which will be useful in this new industrial era. May it be as was quoted by the prophet of old: "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

The Nurse's Training Class.

There are many new organizations and classes in G. H. S. this year, but I think one of the most important is the Nurses Training Class.

With the kind assistance of Miss Shank, the city nurse, and Miss Cowles, who gave us the use of her room, two classes have been organized, meeting on Friday morning from 10 until 11:30. Up to the present time only three lessons have been given, and these were based upon bandaging and first aid. Even with just these few lessons many things were taught which will prove exceedingly useful. It has been promised us that before the course is finished we will know the fundamentals of bed making, care of children, home care of the sick, diet, and bath, as well as the main ideas of the preceding lessons.

Although the class was not started until late this year, it is thought that it will prove very beneficial, as the most practical methods are taught and illustrated as well.

This class must be attended as regularly as any other, and upon our last lesson an examination will be given. Each member who passes this successfully will be credited with one point.

We trust that next year the class will be still better and obtain even more satisfactory results than those of this year. We are sure of this if we have Miss Shank to instruct the class again.

America's Future Politics.

The recent war has been sufficient to prove to all thoughtful Americans that our governmental system is by no means perfect. It brought to the front those things which are to be a part and parcel of our government after the governmental revolution which is to follow this most crucial post war period.

This is a crucial time in the history of America and in the history of the world. Forces which hitherto have been quiet, dormant, are now gaining vigor and are striving for their place in the government of the ensuing era. That some of these forces are assuming formidable and evil aspects is indisputable. However, when the dust and din shall have settled and we are able to examine them in a clearer atmosphere, they will doubtless appear in somewhat less hideous and more pleasing visages. There should be no fear connected with the realization that the world is now passing through a stage of evolution, for this is significant of progress and advancement. According to the law of evolution everything either advances or declines and government is influenced by this law as are all things.

Evolution takes place by slow progressive orderly development or by rapid mutations. In government these evolutionary mutations are called revolutions. These mutations are always attended by hardships, misery and sometimes by extreme suffering. The Russian Revolution furnishes an example of the attending evils of rapid mutations. There we have unutterable misery and decidedly undesirable conditions.

The problem now confronting America is to bring about a condition of things so that this step in our evolution be natural, orderly, and controlled progress; rather than rapid and chaotic mutation. The accomplishment of this will eliminate many of the evils which are usually connected with such evolutionary progress.

In order that she may pass through this period quietly and successfully, America requires highly constructive statesmanship. We can not cling with uncompromising severity to our ante-bellum policies and methods. Our policies must be elastic and progressive; we must consider and give audience to the great questions which now confront us, and deal with them fairly and sanely. To be heedless of these forces will be disastrous; to ignore them is to invite calamity.

ELBERT ALBRIGHT.

Erasing the "Ne."

At one time, the pillars of Hercules bore this inscription, "Ne plus ultra," which means, "No more beyond." This inscription remained until Columbus found his effort to reace India fruitless, as he was blocked by the American continent. Then the negative "Ne" was chiseled off, leaving "Plus ultra," or "More Beyond."

Have we, as High School pupils reached that stage in our lives where we feel that our school work goes no further than that time when we have completed High School?

Have we marked the phrase "Ne plus ultra" on our brains, and are ready to give up?

When we leave High School, many of us will go on to college, others may refuse this opportunity, and still others may take up different lines of work.

Our entire lives, whether we do or do not continue our studies, depend wholly upon ourselves. We, as individuals, have no future hope of success unless we erase the "Ne." We must choose the best goals, and set our standards high.

At times we may feel very discouraged, and may also decide to give up, but let us remember what Columbus discovered by chiseling off the "Ne." Let us too get out our chisel and cut off the "Ne," and chisel the "Plus ultra" longer, higher and deeper.

VELMA WEISENBARGER.

Internationalism.

Like the mortal man, our world is purified and strengthened by trials. We have inherited the vices and virtues of individuals and nations, great and small, from the days of the cave dweller up to the modern era, in which we live today.

Never in the history of mankind have we faced so many mortal issues. People have loved and hated one another, each and everyone striving to educate themselves, in the social world for strength of mind, and in the industrial world for efficiency.

The philosophers, the saints, the heroes—the wise, good or great men who have lived on this earth, today and yesterday, have expressed their views as how we shall live. From their idealisms and our own experience and through endeavors, we have tried to construct the fabric of world brotherhood—internationalism. This is not weakening the nation, which we call our native land. Instead it is strengthening it. Since no one can survive who has confined his view in a small space we must expand—so the principle is applied to a nation.

We have the world today looking forward toward internationalism as a solution for its economic and solial problems, looking right at the very foundation of our home fireside, our nation and the whole world.

There is not, there can not be a man today whose soul is so dead that he is unable to breathe affection for his home; to want to safeguard it, to want to promote the general welfare of himself and his nation. Pride forbade him to look beyond his native land for the solution of his problems, but Pride was not false. He merely had a wrong conception of it, and now is trying to see the wisdom of looking beyond his narrow confines.

Therefore, for our salvation and for our country, it is advisable that we have a complete international brotherhood. Friendship always benefits. We need to be true to others as we are to our inner-self, we must have faith in each. To play falsely is to court ruin and disaster for the world, as it would decay and ruin the walls of its foundations. Let us not wear our ideals like a hat and change them every block, instead let us put our faith in that which is the key-stone of the foundation of life and wear and preach in unto eternity.

LEONARD BLACKWELL, 1920.

Good English Week.

During the school year 1919-1920 was observed the first Good English Week.

This was a wide movement observed in almost all schools for the purpose of arresting attention to the fact that in the past we have not attached great enough importance to the usage of correct English. Such usage of incorrect English is, probably one of the worst detriments to our High School. However, by the excellent example of that week we should profit.

Good English week was kept by everyone with great enthusiasm. Talks were given and essays written in the various English classes on the value of good English both in a business and social way. English students were asked to make lists of their most common errors in our language, and to make an effort to overcome these mistakes in the future.

The members of the English classes proved their admirable ability in writing appropriate poems, largely odes to the downfall of bad English, and the replacing of good. These poetic gems were fittingly and cleverly printed and decorated by the Art Students.

All felt fully rewarded for their labors when the praiseworthy results were arranged around the Assembly blackboard where their good examples confronted us many times each day during the week.

Also some decidedly ingenious parodies were written on some well known songs and sung with zest one morning in the Assembly. These songs were to the effect that King Slang would soon be forced to retire before the growing popularity of Mr. Good English.

The lesson all of us should have learned, however, was that good English should not be maintained throughout the week only, but should be observed during the entire school year.

It is to be hoped that the struggle for good English will be carried on until bad English is practically unknown, and that our observance of Good English Week has established a precedent in G. H. S.

G. H. S. Boy First American to Cross Atlantic in Dirigible Balloon

Lieut. Zack Lansdowne, U.S.N., a former G. H. S. boy, was the first American to make the trip across the Atlantic in a dirigible balloon, the British R-34. He was among those who received a medal for life saving gallantry from the Prince of Wales. When a pupil in G. H. S., Zack showed marked ability in his work in the Art Class.

The dirigible float, pictured above, was constructed by G. H. S. boys, and decorated in red, white and blue and the High School colors of green and white. This float was prominent in the parade of Home Coming Day last October.

SENIOR PRESIDENT
ROBERT MINNICH

Double Octette '19, Boys' Glee Club '19, '20, Rhetoricals '20, Class President '19, '20, President of Student's Council '20, Philographian '20, Sibylline '20, Football '20, Baseball '20, Senior Octette '20. Senior Class Play '20.

He is a man of cheerful yesterdays and confident tomorrows.

Bob is well thought of among the boys, and while not a ladies' man, still he is popular among the girls. He has been an active participant in all the activities of the school, as is shown by his membership in the above organizations. We shall all expect much from him in his later life when D. D. follows his name.

ELBERT ALBRIGHT

Vice-President '18, Sibylline '18, Philographian '20, Vice-President '20.

And e'en though vanquished he could argue still.

Elbert is the standard by which many of our teachers fix our grades. We may add that his favorite hobbies are starting an argument in Civics and also discussing politics. He is a little inclined to I. W. W., but is a friend of all his teachers nevertheless.

GEORGE ALBRIGHT

No Sinner, nor no saint, perhaps, but well, the very best of chaps.

His smile is contagious. His very successful bluffing would cause the greatest of diplomats to despair of competing with him, while his pranks would turn Peck's Bad Boy green with envy. But George is not always the happy-go-lucky person depicted above. His many friends can testify that he can be dignified when he chooses. We like you best when you are jolly, George.

VERA ANDERSON (Ve)

Winchester '17-'18, Secretary '18, Treasurer '19, Athletic Association, Dramatic Club, Greenville '19-'20, Philographian '20, Treasurer of Philographian '20, Sibylline '20, Story Tellers '19, Glee Club '20, Rhetoricals '20, Senior Class Play.

Music is but the voice of the ages

She is one of the friendliest and most musical girls in G. H. S. Her smiles and jollity have won her scores of friends. "Ve" is usually rushing around making herself generally useful to everyone.

LEONA ARNOLD

Philographian '20.

No one can say I'm over-bold.

Leona is a quiet, thoughtful girl, possessing that rare attribute known as preservance. This trait will enable her to accomplish that which is really worth while. She is very good in all her studies but excels in our Domestic Science Class.

ROSCOE BAILEY

Ansonia '17, '18, Orchestra, Literary Society, Mathematicians Club, Athletic Association, Greenville '19, '20, Philographian '20.

He is gentle that doth gentle deeds.

Roscoe has only been here two years but he has accumulated the friendship of all his classmates. He is not lacking in knowledge either, unless appearances are deceitful. He is certainly a fine fellow, but sometimes he makes the funniest mistakes. We have never been able to learn whether these were intentional or accidental.

ROMANIA BASS

Sociedad Castellana '19, Philographian '20

*A Maiden never bold,
A Spirit so still and quiet*

She is seldom heard but knows what she is going to say before she says it. When you think of the steady workers of G. H. S. you must not forget Romania. We do not know if she is ambitious or not, but feel assured in predicting a bright future for her.

PALMER BAUGHMAN (Baughy)

Sibylline '18, Sociedad Castellana '20, Annual Staff '20.

Much I know, but to know all is my ambition.

The class that has counted Palmer as one of its members should be well informed, for his stock of general information never runs low. This, combined with his love of argumentation, marks him as a future statesman.

GLADYS BEANBLOSSOM

Ansonia '17, '18, Choruses '18, Greenville '19, '20.

She is little, but there is lots to her.

We can not all be tall and we are glad the members of our class who are diminutive in stature have proven that their knowledge can not be associated with their size. Gladys is very shy, but she is a fine pal when once you become acquainted with her.

MAURICE BICKEL (Pete)

Sibylline Club '18, Philographian '20, Secretary of Philographian '20, Annual Staff '20, Student Manager of Athletics '20.

Though last, not least, in love.

"Pete," is right there in a history recitation. Where he obtains his supply of knowledge is a mystery. His favorite indoor sport is casting longing eyes upon a fair dame of the Class of '20.

LEONARD BLACKWELL

Eaton High School '17, '18, Play, 'It Pays to Advertise,' Sec'y.-Treas. Sophomore Class, G. H. S. '19, '20, Philographian Society '20, Castillana Sociedad '20, Staff Photographer, Senior Class Play.

Let none presume to wear an undesired dignity

He is a match for anyone in argumentation. In civics he is not daunted when the whole class takes sides against him, and never acknowledges defeat. He has provising oratorical ability and we are informed that he intends to become a politician.

CLARA BRAND

Sibylline Club '19, '20.
Thus shines a good maid in a naughty world

Clara is quiet we all admit, but she is certainly sweet. She is very modest and generally keeps her thoughts to herself, but we imagine she has a good many. She is one of the girls who have gone through G. H. S. without any fuss.

WINIFRED CALDERWOOD

Rhetoricals '17, Sibylline '18, Philographian '20, Senior Class Play.

If to her share some female errors fall, look on her face and you'll forget them all.

That innocent look of hers does not mean that she is at all backward or silent. For she can deliver an oration that will move you to tears or convulse you with laughter as the case may be. You can never be sure if it is her personality or eyes that captivate you. Maybe it is both.

ESTHER BRAND

Sibylline '19, '20.

Very quiet and very good

Yes, they're sisters, and Esther is one of our most conscientious students. She is a firm believer in the saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." We are certain of her success in life.

IRENE CLARK

Gettysburg H. S. '17, '19, Rhetorical- '17, '18, '19, Literary Society '17, '18, Orchestra '17, '18, Mathematical Club '17, Glee Club '17, '18, '19, G. H. S. '20, Glee Club '20.

Fair and sweet as any flower

Her one year at G. H. S. has been a fine addition to our class. If you do not know her it would be worth your while to make her acquaintance. Those twinkling eyes can be very expressive when she is giving an oral theme in English and we would not be at all surprised if some young man has found them so elsewhere.

ANNA CLOPP

Sociedad Castellana '20, Philographian.

The face of her own merit wins her way

Anna seems quiet, but one is impressed by her ambition, her determination to succeed, and greatest of all, the earnest attitude which she takes toward her work. She is also a very diligent scholar. Witness her history recitations! She is a firm believer in women's suffrage, and her arguments, in favor of it, caused much excitement and comment in Civics Class.

MARGUERITE COPPESS (Liz)

Philographian.

My soul today is far away.

Have you ever seen Marguerite sad? Of course not, neither have we. She is full of fun and nothing seems to daunt her good nature. She wears a perpetual smile.

JOSEPHINE COPPOCK (Jo)

Sibylline '19, '20, Philographian '20, Sociedad Castellana '18, Story Tellers, '19, Glee Club, '18, '19, '20, Treasurer Sibylline '20.

I chatter, chatter as I go.

We can not say that Jo is so "quiet" and "unassuming" for to describe her in that manner would be absolute falsehood. She finds a great deal of time to devote to dress, and certainly is among our class dudines.

IRENE CRUMRINE

Story Tellers '20.

I love tranquil solitude, and such society as is quiet, wise and good.

To Irene one could not apply the term boisterous. But hidden behind that shy reserve is a brain not to be despised. If you want to feel her superiority go to Physics class unprepared and listen to her do all the reciting.

ANNABELLE CURTIS

Spanish Club '20, Literary Society '20, Basket Ball '16, '17, Girls' Glee Club '19, '20.

It seems to me 'tis only noble to be good.

Although for the first two or three years we did not hear much from Annabelle, she was studying along with the rest of us in a more quiet way. In her Senior year, she has been heard from by all the teachers as well as her classmates, and her dimples have come into great prominence.

PEARL DEETER

Field Meet '19.

*Ever level, ever true.
To the task she has to do.*

If Pearl goes after the big things in life with the same earnest and conscientious effort she has employed in the preparation of her school work, she will certainly make a success of her future.

HELEN DeHOFF

Annual Staff '20.

Quiet and Unassuming

Helen is not a "barker" in any sense of the word. On the contrary, she is most modest and unassuming. At least, that is the impression she gives, but there are many who know her to be a good worker and faithful friend.

SIMON DUNKLE (Si)

Boy's Glee Club '20, Sibylline Club '20, Philigraphian '20, Spanish Club '19, Senior Octette '20, Senior Class Play.

'E was a 'andsome Man.

We do not know what we would do without our Si. He is as indispensable to us as sugar in coffee. Our advice to you, however, is not to run against him as he is rather large and you might get hurt. Simon is a mighty good fellow and one of the most popular fellows in school.

OLIVE FRY (Ollie)

Philigraphian '20.

Her cheeks like apples the sun had ruddied.

Olive is very good natured. Her readiness to see the funny side of every thing has made her many friends. She always seems to be enjoying herself regardless of her surroundings.

ROBERT GILBERT (Skeeter) (Bob)

Secretary and Treasurer '17, Football '17, '20, Basket Ball '17, '20, Capt. Red Group '20, Philigraphian '20, Student Council '20, Annual Staff '20, Senior Class Play.

A mighty athlete he.

We do not know who put the "Skeet" in "Skeeter," but we do know that "Skeeter" helped to put the "pep" and "push" in all our teams. As an all-round athlete and popular fellow, he can not be beaten. We all wish him success at college and in the years to follow.

ALDUS GOENS

Base ball '17.

Both practical and good, what more can be said of man?

Aldus is so shy of the girls that you hardly know he is about unless called upon to recite. He is not at all backward around the boys, however. You can tell by looking at him that he has set his mark high. Ambition is a fine thing, so do your best, Aldus, we're with you.

LUCILE HAINES

Glee Club, Annual Staff.

A quiet mind is a great blessing

We will all have to admit that Lucile seems very quiet on first acquaintance, but after you have known her, we find that she is fond of fun in a quiet way. Her social activities are not confined to the school alone, as everyone knows.

RALPH HAHN (Budd)

Rhetoricals '17, '18, Orchestra '18, Sociedad Castellana '18, '19, Sec'y.-Treas. Sociedad Castellana '19, Annual Staff '20.

*Artists are born—not made so it has been said
And I have come to think all artists are not dead*

Ralph, throughout his four years in G. H. S. has proven himself equal to many tasks. He is a good cartoonist, besides being interested in art of all lines. The class of '20 expects much of him, for that he has talent you can see from his drawings in this book.

IRWIN HANGEN

Freshman Basket Ball, Philographian '20, Staff.

The farmers are the founders of civilization

Irwin is a worthy representative of the Commercial Course. He is going to be—I know not what, but anyway, it will be something that G. H. S. can be proud of. Here's wishing you luck, Irwin.

HELEN HOFFMAN (Ted)

Girls Glee Club '17, '20, Basket Ball Team '17, '20, Rhetoricals '17, '19, Double Octette '18, '19, Story Tellers Club '19, Sibylline Club '19, Senior Octette, Philographian '20, Annual Staff, Senior Class Play.

There is no art to find the mind's construction in the face.

She is well known in G. H. S. for her talent in talking and writing poetry. If she can't talk sense, she talks nonsense, which is surely a great lift. She is always on hand to enter into any athletics, and her voice may be heard at every school game.

OBED HOVATTER

Sibylline '20, Philographian '20, Annual Staff '20.

Men of few words are the best men.

Obed walks about the halls with that calm collected stride of his in such a way as to make us reflect on our unseemly frivolity. Still he can smile on slight provocation. He is a good, steady, hard-working student, too, and we'll not forget him when school days are over.

RUTH HUBER (Dutch)

Philographian Society '20, Glee Club '20, Octette '20.

She goes on her way rejoicing

Ruth is a lively girl full of "pep" and fun. She believes in having a good time while getting an education. Sometimes she does not exactly have her lessons, but she is so clever in make-believe that the teachers seldom find it out. Outside of her "blue" Mondays she gets her lessons all right as her host of friends can vouch for. So score one for Ruth.

LEAH JEFFERIS

Palestine '17, '18, Greenville '19, '20, Black Basket Ball Team '19, Capt. Senior Basket Ball Team, Rhetoricals '20, Sociedad Castellana '20, Philographian '20, Senior Class Play, Annual Staff.

It is the mind that makes the body rich

It is our daily work that counts. This applies to our friend, Leah, as well as the rest of us. Her two years here have shown her to be of sterling qualities, while her pleasant disposition and democratic manners have won her a host of friends. We have never heard her say what she intends to be, but we have no doubt that it will be something G. H. S. may well feel proud of.

JESSE JONES

Ansonia H. S. '17, Orchestra, Literary Society, Athletic Association, Gettysburg H. S. '18 and '17, Orchestra, Literary Society, Rhetoricals, Mathematical Club, G. H. S. '20, Athletic Association.

He's little, but, oh, my!

Jesse comes all the way from Gettysburg every morning. We wonder if his quiet manner has been caused by his surroundings. Although he has only been with us one year, he has proven his sterling qualities as an all-around good fellow.

ALICE KIMMEL

Girls' Glee Club '17, Rhetoricals '17, 18, Annual reporter '18, Sibylline Club '18, '19, '20, Secretary Sibylline Club '18, Sociedad Castellana '18, '19, Pres. Sibylline Club '18, Philographians '20, Pres. Philographian '20, Story Tellers '19, Annual Staff '20, Senior Class Play '20.

With Dekes Conversing I forget all time.

Alice is the kind of girl who can do anything from translating Virgil to handing a bouquet to Pres. W. and do it well. She does not strive conscientiously to be charming, she just naturally is.

ROSCOE KRIEDER (Boscoe)

Franklin High School '16, '18, Senior Rhetoricals, Philographian '20.

Could I love less, I would be happier.

Are you a good face reader? Well, if you are you can see that Roscoe is always ready for fun. He's good in his studies, too. We can not learn what he intends to be, but have decided that he would make a good preacher or dentist. Please decide for yourself which is the more suitable.

SIDNEY LOHMAN (Sid) (Pick)

Sophomore Class Treasurer '18, President of Spanish Club '20, Sibylline Club '20, Philographian '20, Students Council '20.

All the world loves a lover.

Sid is our champion mile-a-minute talker. But unlike most people given to volubility, he says something when he talks. Sid electrifies his audiences by his words and the voice he uses in expressing his ideas upon electric concerns. We feel confident that he would make a good electrician if he continued with his studies along that line.

MARGARET MARKWITH (Peg Peggy Red)

Basket Ball '17, Rhetoricals '17, '18, '20, Sibylline '18, Girls' Glee Club '19, '20, Story Tellers '19, Philographian '20, Pianist of Boys Glee Club and Octette '20, Orchestra '20, Senior Class Play '20.

Men, not measures, have always been my mark

Peg, with her golden curls, has always proven a valuable asset to our class, by making herself indispensable to both Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs. Not only in music but all dramatic lines does she excel, and G. H. S. can well feel proud of such a talented person.

IRENE MARSHALL

Basket Ball Team '16.

Silence is a perfect herald of joy

Don't you think she looks serene? That's because see knows the four years at G. H. S. have added greatly to her supply of gray matter. She surely attends to her studies and get's good grades. Are you one of her friends? Well, if you are not you don't know what you have missed.

J. E. MARTIN (J. Shorty)

Capt. Orange Group '17, Basket Ball '19, '20, Philographian, Foot Ball '20.

*My only books, were women's looks,
And follies all they've taught me.*

J's achievements speak for themselves, and are sensational to say the least. It would be hard to count the times he has turned the tide on the gridiron as well as in the basket-ball games.

HARRY MERGLER

Freshman Rhetoricals, Group Football, Group Basket Ball, Group Base Ball '17, '20, Philographian '20.

I sag not much, but I think more.

Harry is good in all his studies and if it had not been for an accident, he would have finished in three years. He is fond of arguing and his deep base voice may be heard quite often in some heated discussions with a classmate.

HELEN MILLER

Rhetoricals '18, Spanish Club '18, '19, Sibylline Club '17, '18, '19, Story Tellers Club '19, Philographian '20, Staff '20, Glee Club '20, Senior Class Play.

In thy face I see the map of honor, truth and loyalty

Helen is the charming confidante of our class. She knows our trials and troubles, and never once does she tell a secret, entrusted to her care. She is as popular as she deserves to be, in fact some people are quite "dippy" over her.

LOREN MILLER

North Star '17, '18, Freshman Class President '17, G. H. S. '19, '20, Sociedad Castellana '20, Glee Club '20, Octette '20.

Thou sayest an undisputed thing in such a solemn way

Loren seems very quiet to those who do not know him well, and proves the truth of the axiom, "A flow of words is no proof of wisdom."

ETHEL MILLER

G. H. S. '17, '16, '20, Ansonia '18, Rhetoricals '18, Philographian '20.

She hath a sweet and kindly nature.

We thought that we had lost a very winsome girl when Ethel went to Ansonia, and we certainly were glad to have her return. Her beauty and her cleverness, combined with her winning ways, make one of our classes most popular girls.

GERTRUDE MIDER (Gert)

Vice-Pres. Freshman Class '17, Basket Ball '17, '18, '20, Sibylline '18, Story Tellers '19, Philographian '20, Sociedad Castellana '20, Secretary 1st Semester, Students Council '20, Vice-Pres. Student Council '20, Rhetoricals '17, '18, Staff Reporter '19, Staff '20, Senior Class Play.

You know her but to love her.

"Gert" may well be said one of our most attractive girls. She is very competent and her ability in the art class is well worth considering.

BEULAH MILLS

Ansonia '17, '18, Ansonia Literary Society '17, '18, Chorus '18, Greenville '19, '20, Philographian '20.

Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever

The "devilish" twinkle in her eye, and her giggling have proven her good nature, and this is one reason why we all like to have Beulah about us. Although talkativeness is usually considered an asset, it has proven a great annoyance to Mr. Metzcar, and Beulah has often had to change her study hall.

REBA MORGAN

Wayne H. S. '17, '18, '19, Basket Ball '17, Pianist '17, '18, '19, Sophomore Class President '18, Orchestra '17, '18, '19, Greenville '20.

A very dignified lady

We are sure the Seniors of Wayne High School have missed this curly-haired girl who came into our midst just this year. She entered into our school spirit from the start, and we hope she has enjoyed her last and only year with us.

JOHN NEVILLE

Basket Ball '17, Sociedad Castellana '19.

He trembled when a maid drew near.

John is quiet but not secluded and it can be said that he can be trusted with responsibility. (Take Buchanan's confectionery for example.) Put him at any job and he will put his right foot foremost.

HOPE PEARCE

Staff, Story Tellers Club '19, Philographian '20.

Blushing is the color of virtue

Hope is a very conscientious person, and I think we might say that her motto is, "Do it well or not at all." Her bright red hair might be an indication of a temper, but we never see it displayed.

EDWARD PILLIOD (Ed) (Pilly) (Pills)

Interclass Basket Ball '17, '20, Varsity Basket Ball '19, Base Ball '19, Cheer Leader '20, Philographiau '20, Rhetoricals '20, Boys' Glee Club '20. Annual Staff, '20, Senior Class Play.

A light heart lives long.

"Pilly" has been full of school spirit since the beginning of his High School days. Those of us who attended the foot ball and basket ball games will always remember what a peerless cheer leader "Pilly" was. He is also at home on the stage, where he can play equally well the part of hero or that of villain.

FREDERICK R. PLACE (Dad) (Fred)

Sophomore President '18, Senior Octette '20, Orchestra '20, Sibylline '20, Philographian '20, Asst. Capt. Reds '20, Rhetoricals '20, Senior Class Play '20.

*Life is a jest and all things show it,
I thought so once, but now I know it.*

Just look who's here - the most original fellow that has ever been in G. H. S. What else is he? Bright? Sure thing. Witty? Yes, indeed. Athletic? Certainly. Clever? Most assuredly. What more do you want? However, we regret to say that Fred has never taken any stock in the phrase, "Mum's the word."

MAX RAYBURN

Sibylline Club '18.

Blessings on the little man.

Max is not as solemn as he looks by any means. His sense of humor is very near the surface and bubbles over continually. We wonder if that innocent stare helps him to get his lessons. If it does it wouldn't hurt if some more of us had it. Max is the youngest boy in the class, too. Do you really think he looks it?

LILLIS RIEGLE

Annual Staff '20.

A sweet and cheery maiden.

Lillis is one of our classmates who does not let her troubles take all the pleasure out of life. She is blessed with a woman's privilege of changing her mind which was shown to us very plainly in her Junior year. We think we may well say that she is one of our most attractive girls.

FLORENCE RIMER

Sociedad Castellana '19, Philographian '20, Class Play '20.

Fair tresses man's imperial race ensnare, and beauty draws it with a single hair

By the looks of her eyes and the expression on her face, you can tell she is not of a serious turn of mind. Florence, besides being beautiful, has such a winning smile that no one can help but like her. We predict the highest position we can think of—that of a homemaker—for her in the very near future.

PAULINE ROBBINS

Philographian '20, Rhetoricals '20, Senior Play.

Whence is thy learning? Hath thy toil o'er books consumed the midnight oil?

Pauline is certainly one of our most competent Senior girls. Her work in the Nurse's Training Class readily surpasses that of the rest and it is predicted that she will make a very capable nurse. But one can not think of Pauline, without thinking of her mental ability.

ROSELLA FLORENCE SARVER (Rosy)

Sibylline '18, '19.

My heart is fixed.

Rosella's talent lies along the domestic lines, which will prove a great asset to her in the near future, if all reports are authentic. Everyone notices her style and attractive manner, and considers George quite fortunate.

CLARENCE SCHMALENBERGER (Dutch)

Varsity Basket Ball '18, '19, '20, Captain Gray Group '19, '20, Philographian '20, Glee Club '20, Senior Octette '20, Secretary of Senior Class '20, Annual Staff '20, Senior Class Play.

She loves me, she loves me not.

Did you ever hear "Dutch" laugh? It surely comes from a jolly youth who has "pep" for every thing, barring lessons, but even then he manages to get through somehow. "Dutch" is a fellow who has the ability to turn many a weary hour into joy through his clever jokes. We shall also remember him for his melodious voice, and his splendid work in basket ball.

HELEN SELLMAN

Palestine H. S. '17, Literary Society '17, Basket Ball '17, Palestine and Hollensburg Contest '17, G. H. S. '18, '20, Sibylline Club '18.

Such dignity hath she, such gentle mien.

Helen goes about with that sunny smile which goes well with her disposition. If we could all get her grades maybe we could afford a sunny smile too. I don't know though, it just seems natural for some people to look blue. But confidentially, between you and I, I believe Helen is right—a few more smiles and a few more grades would help us all.

LENA SELLMAN

Palestine H. S. '17, Literary Club '17, Basket Ball '17, G. H. S. '18, '20, Sibylline Club '18.

Only my quietness shall make me great, my humbleness exalt me.

I have often noticed that it is not always the person who makes the most noise that gets some thing done. Lena evidently believes that she is in school to be seen and not heard, yet you can rest assured she has her lessons well. We wish we had more like you Lena, perhaps we would have a little quieter school.

MILDRED SHEFFLER

Ansonia '18, Glee Club '17, Basket Ball '17, Greenville '18, '19, '20, Sibylline '18, '19, Philographian '20.

A dainty little lady and most sweet.

Sweet, lovable and quiet Mildred! Here is the girl who has captured the heart of Roscoe. Although she has only been here three years, she has made many true friends. What more can be said of any girl?

OLIVE SHULTZ

A sweet expression is the highest type of feminine loveliness.

We might easily say that Olive's motto is, "Giggle and the class giggles with you," for this is assuredly what happens when anything occurs that appears to her humorous. During her four years in G. H. S., she has studied diligently, and we predict that she will make a success in the business world.

JOHN C. SKIDMORE

Orchestra '16, '20, Philographian '20, Freshman Basket Ball '16.

*A solemn youth with sober phiz,
Who eats his grub and minds his biz.*

The Skidmore boys must have inherited the musical talent, at any rate, it runs in the family. John certainly is not going to let his brother get ahead of him, at least, not in school. Well, we're with you, John. You are too good a fellow to forget about.

ROBERT SKIDMORH

Orchestra '16, '20, Philographian '20.

He wins his way by diligence

"Bob" is our far-famed violinist, which shows that they do more than raise corn on a farm. He is a good all-round student, but I think that Chemistry and Botany are his favorite studies. Still that does not prove anything. He may be a Greek teacher before he gets through. Who knows?

ERNEST SMITH (Lazarus Laz)

Philographian.

By the work one knows the workman

Appearances are often deceiving. Many think Ernest is one of the meek unassuming kind, but they have never heard any of his clever and original jokes, or they would change their minds. He has managed to steer clear of the girls and yet I can not imagine him as one of our future bachelors. How about it Ernest?

RUTH SNYDER

Story Tellers Club, Senior Rhetoricals.

'Tis better to be small and shine than to be great and cast a shadow

What a fine pal she is! If you need cheering up, go to Ruth. But please don't use slang as it is not at all to her liking. We wish we had her happy accomplishment of appearing so very innocent after some particularly mischievous prank.

DALE STOLTZ

Gettysburg '17, Basket Ball '17, Greenville '18, '19, '20, Basket Ball '19, '20, Football '20.

He holds the eel of science by the tail.

Dale is our tall football man. He is hard to beat in any athletics or studies for that matter. He is not one of the loud boastful kind, but he knows what he knows just the same. We are hoping that Dale will make a farmer, still, who knows, he may be a president some day.

IRA SWANK

Rhetoricals '17, Glee Club '20, Octette '20, Sociedad Castellana '20, Philographian '20, Staff '20.

Most of the eminent men in histo y have been diminutive in stature.

Ira is small, but also was Napolean. He has the real G. H. S. spirit of love for work. To his friends he is a "pal" ever ready to be assistance in school work or in social diversion. If you are not ranked as one of his friends you have certainly missed a rare privilege.

THELMA THOMAS (Tim)

Arcanum '17, Literary Society '17, Greenville '18, '19, '20, Sibylline '18, Orchestra '18, '19, '20, Story Tellers '19, Sociedad Castellana '19, Class Treasurer '20, Philographian '20, Annual Staff '20, Basket Ball '19, '20, Treas. Sociedad Castellana '19.

Her airs, her manners, all who saw admired

"Tim" believes in having a good time whatever the costs. This combined with "optimism," her middle name, has gained her many friends from our class in the three years she has been with us.

VERNIE TOWNSEND

Basket Ball '17, Capt. of Group Basket Ball Team '20, Foot Ball '19, Base Ball '20, Basket Ball '19, '20. Philographian, Staff.

He travels safe who by Love is guided

Vernie is a fine runner and a good all-round athletic man. He is very quiet in outside appearance, but his host of friends find him a very congenial friend. He is a good student and a hard-working athlete, an ideal combination.

NELLIE TURNER

Glee Club '17, '18, '19, '20, Rhetoricals '17, '18, '20, Story Tellers '19, Philographian '20, Annual Staff '20, Senior Play, Spanish Club '20
A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance

In school work, Nellie is always there with the "goods" and we often sit with open mouths listening to her mystery stories. We have invariably found her to be open-hearted and fun loving. She also excels in dramatic work of any kind and if she does not go on the stage it will seem to many that she has missed her calling.

SELMA UNGERICHT

Story Tellers '19, Sociedad Castellana '20.
'Tis only noble to be good

There are smiles of all kinds and descriptions, but we have never found any just like Selma's. They are so continuous. She must study in between "giggles" though, for she always seems prepared for any recitation.

HELEN VANATA

Annual Staff '20.
With countenance demur and modest grace

Helen has never been known to lose her temper and always may be found very calm and serene. There are many people who envy her, her grades and her ability of being able to recite whenever she is called upon.

EVA WEAVER

Sociedad Castellana '20, Philographiar '20, Staff.
Sober, Steadfast and demur

Eva can get her lessons without thinking out loud, which is a happy accomplishment not attained by some. She is seldom heard from unless called upon to recite, and more seldom fails to recite. We feel sure there are quite a few scattered here and there that would gladly exchange their grades with her.

VELMA WEISENBARGER (V Suzie)

Philographian '20, Sibylline Club '18, '19, Sociedad Castellana '20, Basket Ball '16, '20, Vice-Pres Junior Class '18, '19, Glee Club, Story Tellers Club '18, '19, Sec'y.-Treas. of Story Tellers Club '18, '19, Rhetoricals '16, '20, Annual Staff, Philographian Debating Team, Senior Octette, Senior Play '20.

Variety is the spice of life

"V" is one of the sweetest girls in G. H. S. In studies as well as in social activities she is always among the first. Her English stories are always so original and interesting, but best of all, we like her poems. They show that we can boast of one poet at least. We are expecting you to become famous, "V" We think you would make a good president's wife, but be sure he is a good president.

MARLINE WESTERFIELD (Pesky)

Orange Basket Ball Team '17, '18, '19, Sibylline '18, '19, Rhetoricals '17, '18, '20, Senior Class Play '20.

A dainty little lady and most sweet

Marline glides smoothly through all her studies, but her triumph over the Spanish subjunctive, that second year Spanish nightmare, was marvelous. Her rosy cheeks, blue eyes and light, curly hair have great attraction for young and old.

CERES WILLIAMS

Basket Ball '17, '18, '19, '20, Sociedad Castellana '18, '19, Story Tellers '19, Sibylline '20, Glee Club '20, Philographian '20, Athletic Editor '20, Rhetoricals '20, Captain Basket Ball '19, Class Cheer Leader '19, '20. Senior Class Play.

Don't worry—it makes deep wrinkles

Whenever, during our four years in G. H. S., something was to be done and no one else had the nerve and "pep," "Sheeny" always stepped forth and held up the honor of the class. Whether in athletics or in "The Follies" she shows her marked ability.

ROBERT WILLIAMS ("Bob")

Philographian '20.

Trust not too much to my enchanting face

"Bob" is our class fashion plate. Can any of us forget the ready smile or those wonderful curly eyelashes? Dance? Simply indescribable. None of us can ever forget his make-up and stunts as end man in our vaudeville minstrel show.

IRENE WILT (Babe)

Sophomore Rhetoricals '17, '18, Junior Rhetoricals '18, '19, Philographian '20, Annual Staff '20, Sibylline '20, Senior Class Play.

My man's as true as steel

Irene is one of those girls who is usually seen, but not heard (in a crowd). She has said that she intends to take up domestic work in the near future. Of course, that sounds plausible, but sometimes—we wonder?

HARRY WINTERS

G. H. S. '16, '20, Philographian Society '20, Sibylline Club '17, '18, Group Easke Ball '16, '17, '18.

A staid and quiet man

You can never tell what he is going to say next. He will generally jump up and start at the middle of what he is going to say and then stop at both ends or no ends at all. But that's not so bad, Harry, as there are some more of us that do the same. Keep on and some of these days you will be at the head of a er—creamery or something.

NELLIE WITTERS (Nell)

Basket Ball '16, '20, Philographian '20, Girls Glee Clnb.

Still she chews a dimes worth six days of the week, while the seventh she passes with a chew in each cheek

Our tall stately Nellie is looked up to by many. She looks only on the bright side of things and her cheery smile is sure to greet you unless she did not get much sleep the night before. In that case you will pardon her I am sure.

GILES WOLVERTON (Dip Dippy)

Sibylline '17, '18, Rhetorical '18, Senior Octette, Glee Club '20, Philographian, Annual Staff.

*How happy could I be with either
Were the other dear charmer away.*

"Dippy" is a rare example of wit combined with sense. This probably accounts for his high standing in his studies. His most characteristic way of expressing emotion is a rippling gurgle. "Dip" is an exception to the rule that all great singers are large men, for he certainly kept us guessing where those melodious tones come from.

Junior Class History

Once upon a time there entered old G. H. S. a little red-haired, freckled-faced boy. He was awkward, bashful, ignorant and green. He couldn't even "sub" on any of the teams. His name was—1921. However, in his second year he lost a part of his bashfulness and began to show his ability in athletics and music. But, in his third year he is a fine, manly fellow and excels in all activities.

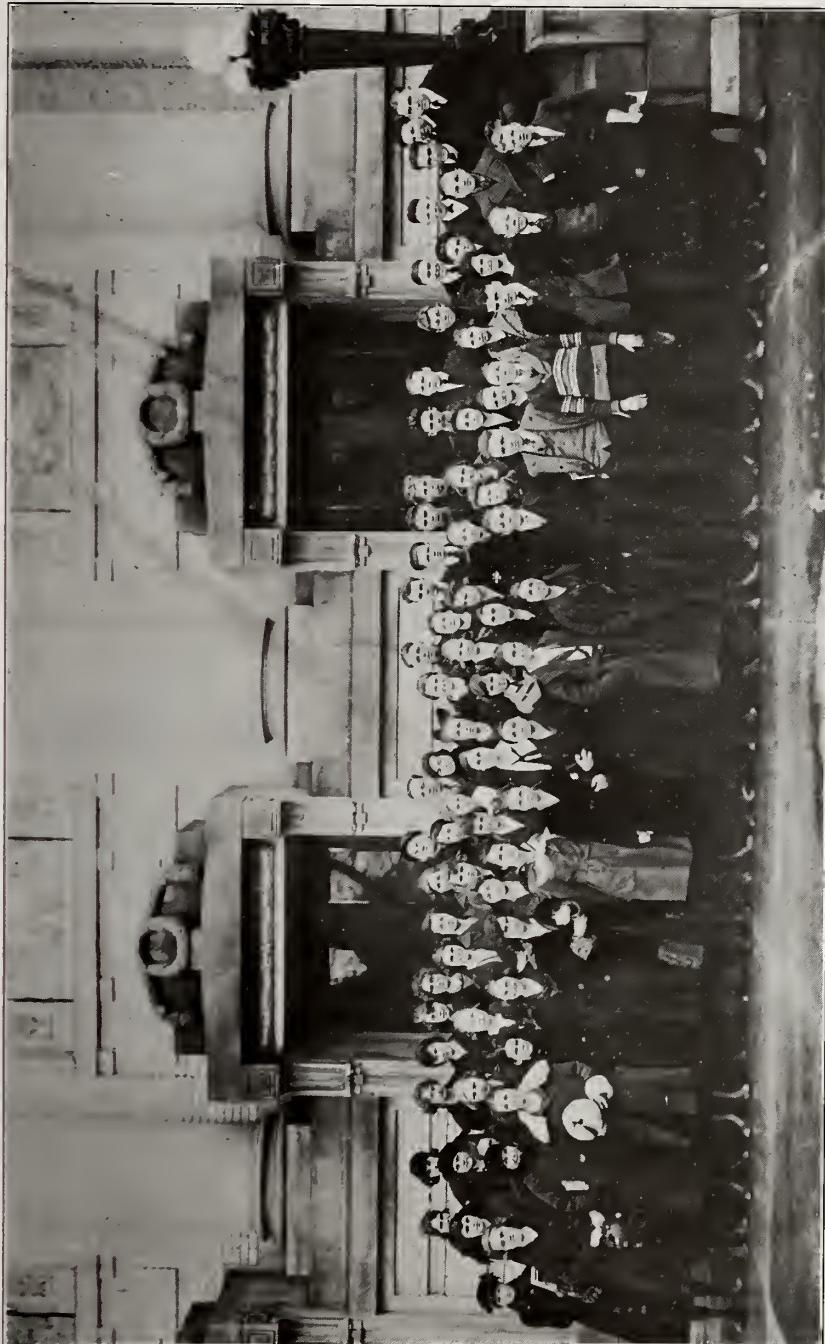

He first attended a big Hollowe'en party at the North Building. He also became interested in a new literary society called the "Druids." This year 1921 does not intend to be beaten on Field Day, so he adopted the slogan "Let's Go," and is trying hard to live up to it. In the winter he attended a bob-sled party at the home of Lois Lohman and he enjoyed it very much. Lately he went to a wiener roast at the pumping station. 1921 is found to be quite dramatic and very musical. He is also so active that he is looking forward eagerly to the Junior and Senior reception the latter part of May. Soon he will leave old G. H. S. and we are trusting the world to do the rest.

Sophomore Class History

In September, 1918, our class, now Sophomores, entered upon High School career with light hearts, and eager to take up the work of our new and different school life.

We soon learned the customs and ways of the High School, and entered into our duties with all the earnestness and zeal that we possessed. At the same time we began to realize that we were only a group of simple Freshmen. Many times we were made the laughing stock of the school, but we went about our own business and paid no attention to the rebukes flung at us by the upper classmen.

During all this time, while at lesson or at play, we were happily looking forward to the time, when we would be considered upper classmen and would proudly adopt the name of Sophomores. We have now claimed that name and are putting our best foot forward.

In our first year of High School life, on account of sickness, we were credited with only two social gatherings. This year we have been more fortunate; we have had a Halloween party, which was held in the Memorial Hall and a bob-sled party, after which we were entertained at the home of Vivian Davison. We hope to have several other social events before the year is over.

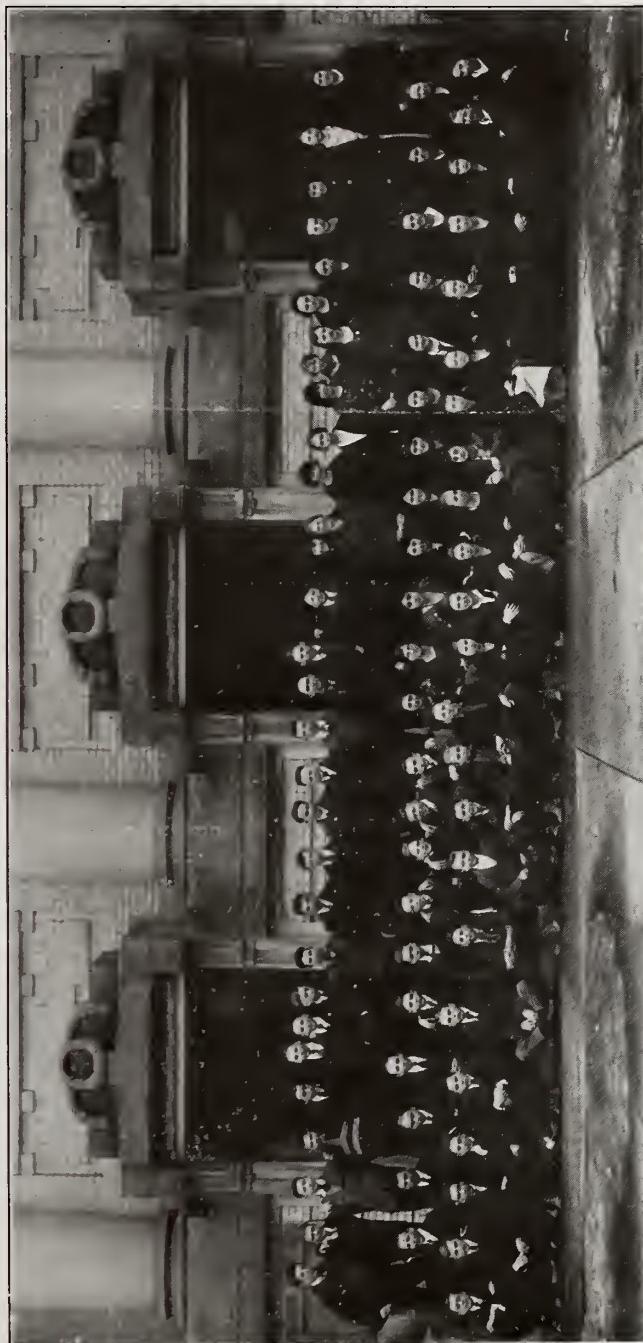

Our class is well represented in the High School Orchestra, Camp Fire Girls, Students Council, various clubs, and in all the branches of school athletics. We have had representatives in all the group games, as well as on the High School Baseball, Basketball and Football teams. We expect the athletes of our class to do great things in the future, for our football and basketball teams. In the track meet last, although we did not accomplish anything to "crow" about, we were able to get several pointers for the preparation of tract meets in the future. We feel sure that by the end of a couple of years the Red and Gold will be waving in triumph of athletic ability as well as of knowledge.

1920 REVUE

History of the Freshman Class

We, the class of 23 rsh! Entered G. H. S. in the fall of 1919 with an enrollment of one hundred and thirty-three students, which is the largest class known in the history of the school. Having the will and determination of promising students we soon became accustomed to the daily routine of school life.

After a few weeks we were permitted to organize, and the above officers were elected. Our social events to date have been limited to two parties, but we are looking forward to a picnic this spring which will probably surpass these.

The number of our students which keep "up to par" mentally, morally, physically and socially is astonishingly large. We have representatives in almost every activity in the High School. Gerald Pieffer and John McOwen did brilliant work on the gridiron, while "Ally" Herrman showed his interest in baseball during that first game of the season by dexterously handling the "horse-hide." As to artists we are very fortunate in having Martin Wogaman and Paul Garrison.

We enter enthusiastically into the various organizations of the school. Many various girls have joined Camp Fire Girls Club, and the Students Council can boast of five representatives from our class, namely: Dorothy Crisler, Alice Strait (Secretary of the organization), George Buchy, Dick John and myself. To this organization we owe our present success which we have acquired through close observation of its regulations.

The ambition which we cherish most is to see the time when students of G. H. S. will doff their hats to "peacock blue and silver gray," the class colors which we have chosen. So in the future we are going to take more stock in the "gold mine" of increased capacity for knowledge which will make us more efficient and loyal subjects of the U. S. A.

Philographian Society

Alice Kimmel ..	President

The organization of the Philographian Society was one of the accomplishments of the Class of '20. Only students of the Senior Class are eligible to membership. The name was chosen after much consideration, and means "lovers of writings."

The purpose and aim of the Society is to develop an appreciation of good literature, to do all in its power in co-operating with the faculty in all matters pertaining to better scholarship, to give to its members greater facility in the use of the English language and to broaden and augment the literary knowledge of it's members. The meetings are held twice a month, and the program consist of debates, book reviews, plays, speeches and music. So the Philographian Society of 1920 turns over the responsibility of the Club to the Class of 1921, wishing them every success in their efforts to increase the usefulness of the Society.

The Students Council

The Students Council is a new organization in the folds of our High School. As time goes on new conditions arise which must be met with new ideas and this council was organized as a result of one of these conditions. This idea was that of democracy and self government; that the students may help to govern themselves in their school life. The government of the United States was founded on the principle that every man should have an equal part in determining how his every-day life shall be conducted. This is going to be the spirit of G. H. S. The students wish to help to govern themselves and with the aid of the Principal they hope to carry some of the responsibility of the School.

The Constitution reads: "The purpose of this organization is for the moral, mental and physical uplift of our school." and it is for this they are all working.

The Council consists of each class president and two boys and two girls of his class who are appointed by him. The Principal, who is also a member, appoints one other from the Senior Class in order that there will be an uneven number in the voting. At the first meeting of the year an election is held when a President, Vice-President and Secretary are chosen. At the meetings, which are held the first and third Fridays of each school month, there are discussions on questions which anyone might think a benefit to the school. The Council succeeded in opening the gymnasium at noon hours for the boys from the country, who have no other place to go. Two of these fellows were appointed every two weeks to oversee the games that were played. The bulletin board was the work of the members of this organization. Many other minor things were accomplished and we hope to do much more in the future.

The Students Council, being in its infancy this year made many mistakes, but as time goes on it will strive to correct these. All that has been accomplished has been only with the help of Mr. Roehm and Mr. McCool, who are willing to make this a better institution. We hope we may look forward to G. H. S. in years to come as a school which is superior to any, in which the students may have a share in the building.

Barcelona, Spain, May 1, 19---

Dear Old Chum:

Do you remember those good old days of the Sociedad Castellana? Of course the years of 1919-1920 were the best, to our minds at least, we must give most of the credit for our famous (?) to our renowned president, Sidney Lohman. I am sure all the members would agree if they knew it.

The Club honestly was a success that year. Don't you remember Mr. Ottman saying that it was better than the one the year before? "More co-operation," he said.

That was a clever program we gave for the Spanish classes, but it was nothing in comparison to our hike. On March 31, a beautiful day, we started and hiked seven miles, if I remember correctly. If you don't believe that it was a wonderful hike, ask Leonard! Remember those weiners and marshmallows. It still makes my mouth water to think of them. And, oh, those delicious pickles!

The hike evidently was not enough for some of those "kids" for you know they stayed at Mildred Ruh's until---well, you know what time they got home.

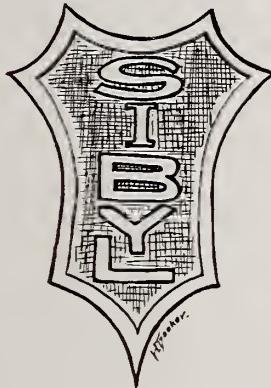

I could go on and tell you, or rather, recall to your mind many other things that happened but I fear you would tire of it. It was my desire to write this in Spanish but I thought probably you were a bit "rusty" with your translating.

Your friend, as always,

MARGARET THROP, Sect. de la S. C.

Sibylline Club

Harvey Rush President
Fred Place Vice-President
Dorothy Coppock Secretary
Josephine Coppock Treasurer

Inasmuch as there were no Sibylline members taking Latin this year, owing to the fact that there are no Cicero and Virgil classes, little interest was manifested in the Club early in the year. However the Caesar students became interested in the customs of the ancient Romans and with the co-operation of Mr. Gowdy and the old members of the Sibylline Club, reorganized in December.

Because of this delayed beginning, so far we have not accomplished as much as usual, but we hope that by living up to our motto, "Carpe Diem" (Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today) we may accomplish great things during the rest of the year.

HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Orchestra

There are many kinds of music. One kind includes the serenade of a cat on the back fence to his sleeping (?) household, also the piano music when your little sister is practicing for her second lesson. Another kind is Boston Symphony, Sousa's Band and Greenville High School Orchestra.

The G. H. S. Orchestra is famous for many reasons. Its fiddlers three! Martha Weisenbarger, Robert Skidmore and Charles Mangen lead the others in 'The Turkey and the Straw' and 'Yankee Doodle' variety. Forest Winters, Harold Weisenbarger and Kenneth Ganger sound the bugle for all our marches 'de pep.'

"Katz" and Lloyd Weisenbarger furnish the clarinet obligato, and Fat ' Helman is big enough to furnish the alto for the whole orchestra. And then we have Bob Ganger's trombone solos with "Peg" Markwith at the piano. We have wondered why delicate Reland chose such a large instrument and wonder too at her ability to master a huge cello. Mary McCabe her accomplished rival, is much more appropriate of stature and just as competent.

Much credit should be given to Fred Place and "Bill" Jobes (at the drums) for the ever perfect time of the orchestra. Every Tuesday during the fifth period the orchestra practices diligently so as to be prepared for its requests to play in public. Under the directorship of Miss Kelz, 1920 has been a very profitable year.

Girls Glee Club

From harmony, from heavenly harmony, this universal frame began
When Nature underneath a heap of jarring stones lay.---Dryden

Properly speaking, it would be appropriate for the Glee Club write-up to start with a song, but since poets are born and not made, this borrowed quotation will have to do. It has been said that the fair sex can not work in harmony, but the twenty-seven girls of our High School Glee Club have often produced most harmonious results. Please forgive the pun on harmony. The powers of music are innumerable. It can drive away the clouds, figuratively speaking, and bring the sunshine and it even has charms to soothe the savage breast. Benefits received by the girls in the Club this year will not die but will remain with them forever and cause them to go through life with a smile on their lips and a song in their heart.

Music is the thrill in education, not a thrill on education, therefore, a musical organization, especially one composed of boys, is a valuable asset to G. H. S. In the past, Boys Glee Clubs have not faired well for some reason or other, so this year the fellows were determined to make it a go. October 3, 1919, a motley crowd composed of representatives from all of the classes assembled in the music room for the try-outs. The manner in which they were apportioned was very good with a predominance of second tenors. After several practices the club was prepared to render some pleasing numbers, but as no opportunity presented itself, they have never appeared in public as yet.

DWARD PILLIOD, famous cheer leaper of G. H. S., was in trouble. There was no use in arguing the question pro or con, for it was plain to the eyes of everyone, that something had occurred in his young life which had made him act quite queerly. The stinging cold wind sighed and moaned as if it too had trouble. People hurried home to a crackling fire and a warm supper. The stamping of cold feet, the rubbing of hands, the blowing of red noses, the sharpening of sled runners for the predicted snow fall, the clinking of ice skates, the minute inspection of the thermometer and the following grumble, the sighing of the trees for summer, the rattle of the window panes, the slamming of doors and the dark grey sky further explained the condition of the weather. The frost elves hurriedly painted the windows and scampered away. The movie manager, from his window looked at the empty street with disgust. With sorrowful eyes he carried in his "Mary Pickford" posters and deprecated the blustering night. A cold fearsome gloom enfolded "Pilly," a gloom too chill for any thermometer to register. He never went to a movie.

It was whispered in the High School halls, among the feminine sex, that some great accident had befallen our renowned cheer leader. He did not make a pretence of trying to be sociable, but would wander past his friends and never say a word. The girls could prove this statement, for, had "Pilly" not passed them within two inches, neither looking to the right or left, with his eyes fixed in a perpetual stare upon the sidewalk.

Did they not run two whole squares in order to repass him and have him repeat the very same thing again. It was amazing! The truth, of course it was the truth. Something was desperately wrong.

The most careless eye could see the great change in his appearance for he was pale and thin, and according to the gossip of the school, he had been frequently seen gazing into empty space. His presence reeked with mystery, while he seemed to be passing into his second childhood. Everyone talked of it, and any possible reason that could be mentioned for his peculiar acting was debated anew.

Fred Place, a thoughtful lad, voiced his opinion of the fact, that his afflicted classmate was financially embarrassed, or perhaps his girl had "dished him." Could it be money matters? Dear me, no! Didn't he work at Crisler's "Sweets and Eats?" Besides he had no longer kept up his social duties. He did not care to talk nor bear any one do so, but sat in his front seat and gazed into infinity.

Even the teachers noticed it, for it was singular that he paid such excellent attention and answered all questions asked him.

If a ghost had risen and walked, the amazement of the High School could not have been greater than when it was known that Edward had cancelled an order for a suit. Think of it, Edward Thomas Pilliod, "the mold of fashion and the glass of form," cancelling an order for a suit. Not that he need a new suit. Heavens, No, for never before was he known to cancel an order for a suit. What had happened? If that grand old building G. H. S. could never before boast of a mystery, it could do so now, for this was a mystery apparently too deep for the human brain to solve.

Another reason which verified the belief that he was an altered man, was that he took no interest at all in the coming Christmas holidays, as he had bought no presents. This was good evidence that all was not well with "Pilly." The only thing the Senior class was aware of was that the best cheer leader ever produced by G. H. S. was in trouble.

Then one day the great mystery was solved. The knot was cut. Mr. Wheeler, coming into his room found Edward in his usual condition, his hat pushed back from his forward, still staring, not into empty space, but at a newspaper upon which large black headlines were visible:

"Greatest Phenomenon in World's Record"
End of the World December 17, 1919
Beware!

Summer Is Done.

*Along the wayside, and up the hill,
The goldeurod flames in the sun;
Nature's flowers are doing her will,
And die, for summer is done.*

*A wonderful glory fills the air
And large and bright is the sun;
Leaves are flying here and there,
For now the summer is done.*

Park Drive

A Gathering Cyclone.

*Perchance it is the moaning of the wind that sounds so drear,
It may be just the mournful dropping of the rain I hear,
The black encircling heavens seem a mystery to fear;
And the wind wails on and on.*

*It seems that all the haunting things of life are crowding 'round,
A ghastly play of lightning passes o'er without a sound,
The fearful roar and rumble seem to shake the very ground,
And the wind wails on and on.*

*The maple buds and blossoms all are drenched and downward cast,
While each and all with startled gace look to the west aghast
With whirling, moaning, howling, the cyclone gathers fast—
And the wind shrieks on and on!*

HELEN HOFFMAN, '20.

John Martel, Jr.

OF COURSE, all men die, and people as a rule soon forget about the deceased, but this was not the case with Mr. John Martel of Hanover. The city of Hanover was not too large but that a stranger could easily be seen, nor was it so large but that a person usually was known all over the town. When something extraordinary happened, it was talked about by everyone.

People did not talk about Mr. Martel because they knew a great deal about him, but because they knew almost nothing. They knew that he had lived in Hanover for years, they knew that he was rich, and they knew that he never went anywhere. That was about all. Naturally when he died the people were excited, and although six months had gone by, he was still the main topic for conversation.

"Who would get his mansion? Had he willed it to the city? Where was his heir?" Such were the questions in the minds of the people.

Dr. DeWitt, the physician of Mr. Martel when he was living, was the only one who was ever in his home. He knew about the affairs of the rich man, but was loath to talk about them even to his wife. But what about Mrs. DeWitt? Yes, she was a woman, hence she loved to talk and carry the news. She was a friend to the young people and loved to entertain them. She wanted to find out all she could about Mr. Martel, so that she could inform her friends about him. Understanding her husband very well, she knew that when he wished to tell something he would do so, but that if he did not wish to tell, "all the king's horses and all the king's men" could not extract one word or atom of information from him. But she was learning his ways still better each day and some times boasted of how she could get him to tell her what she desired to know.

Mrs. DeWitt must have been skillful in extracting the news from the doctor, for it was not long until Dame Gossip was very busy all over the town.

Mr. John Martel's heir had been located and, more than that, he was coming to Hanover. The father and son had quarreled and so John Martel, Jr., had never been in Hanover. Then what did Dame Gossip say next? Listen, he was young, handsome, unmarried and sole heir to the Martel estate. He was to arrive some time in June.

The debutantes of Hanover talked of nothing else and soon there was a jealous spirit among them. Mary Jane Drew, aged sixteen, dreamed about John, Jr., and anxiously awaited his arrival. Dorothy Long, who had seen seventeen gay summers and jolly winters, wondered how she could arrange to meet him. Phoebe Rike, the beautiful brunette, aged eighteen, was sure of him. Priscilla Lowell, the pretty little blonde, also eighteen, who simply could not get a beau, lived in hope.

However, the question of meeting him was soon settled, for Mrs. DeWitt sent out the cards inviting a number of young people to her home the evening following his arrival.

Time went on until half of June was gone, and then one Wednesday the papers announced that Mr. John Martel, Jr., would arrive on the midnight train that night. Dr. DeWitt also had received word to that effect. Thursday night would witness the long looked for event.

About six o'clock that evening the home of the Drews was a scene of action. Mary Jane was the daughter of a rich banker. Their home was beautiful, a magnificent brown stone mansion, surrounded by shrubbery and flowers, which added to its beauty. Mary Jane was the idol of this home. Mrs. Drew was particularly interested that her daughter marry well, and lately had imagined her the mistress of the Martel mansion. Mary Jane had bought a new dress for the occasion. Blue silk was the color which matched her pretty blue eyes, just as the fine lace and hand embroidery suited her dainty figure. Nora, her maid, dressed her hair stylishly and at last, after an hour and a half of much fussing and primping, she was ready.

In a simple little bungalow Dorothy Long was before the mirror, a magnet drawing her. Her shining red hair was in perfect order; every fold in her white dress gleamed straight before she would leave the glass. Finally she emerged from her position before the mirror into the presence of the family. Then, after many flattering speeches, she hastened to the DeWitt home.

"Remember, Sis," said Phoebe Rike's brother Charley, at the Rike home, "when you move into the mansion that I'm your brother still and I'm coming to see you, too. I'll promise to take off my overshoes so I won't track mud in. But you shouldn't care for that, why you'll have a maid to do the sweeping and dusting. My! you'll get lazy sitting around all the time talking to John, Jr."

"Don't be so foolish, Charles," answered Phoebe, pretending to be angry. But really she was sure that John Martel, Jr., would select her, for she was known in Hanover as the beautiful brunette.

"If oo has ice cream ev'y meal, I'll tum," lisped four-year-old Sue, Phoebe's baby sister.

"Such nonsense," muttered Phoebe, rising to go. "Mother, be sure that the furniture is straight when I come home. It might be we." Then Phoebe left.

At the Lowell cottage everything went wrong with Priscilla. Mrs. Lowell was very proud of her daughter, the pretty blonde. Only one thing was lacking and that was money. Few persons in Hanover knew this though, because Mrs. Lowell was very clever in hiding it. When she failed to get the hat, suit, or dress, which she told the neighbors she was sure of getting, she gave very good excuses. It would not be in style long, or it wouldn't pay, or would not fit, or the material was not the best. She usually had something to say about the people of the town and was always finding fault. Her one ambition was for Priscilla to get married. None of the young men of the city suited Priscilla, so she said, but in truth Priscilla had inherited some of the traits of her mother and, although she would have been glad for the friendship of some of the fellows, they did not seem to care very much for her. Secretly this worried Mrs. Lowell, but then her great hope lay in John Martel, Jr.

"Don't talk too much tonight, dear," advised Mrs. Lowell. "Act refined and lady-like and be sure and don't let on that this dress is made over from one of your aunt's."

"Aw, let her act natural," broke in Jack, Priscilla's brother. "He won't fall in love with her any way. How could he? Bah!"

"Time will tell," replied Priscilla, and having taken the last look into the mirror, she too made her way to the home of the DeWitts.

The DeWitts lived in a cozy little bungalow. Climbing roses were in full bloom at each end of the porch which faced the neatly-cut lawn.

Upon arriving at the home of Mrs. DeWitt the girls found this lady nervous and pale. What could be the matter? She glanced hastily at the door, while she tried to talk to the girls in a natural tone.

At last footsteps were heard outside the room. Within there was a rustling of dresses, a fixing of hair, and much posing. Each girl looked eagerly towards the door. In walked Dr. DeWitt and Mr. John Martel, Jr.!!!

He was fifty years old, bald-headed, short, fat—a widower with six children.

IRENE MARSHALL.

In An Old Trunk

YOUR mother is dead," rasped Madam Zenda, the noted fortune teller. "I sees you has in your home a trunk, which used to belong to her. In this here, there are many things which was her's and her mother's and, most important of all, some valuable papers. Don't destroy 'em, because some day they'll prove of great value to you. Now, dearie, may God bless you."

Virginia Brady, a beautiful girl of nineteen, was thrilled through and through, as Madam Zenda finished her fortune with this unexpected news. Her large black eyes grew bigger, as she let her imagination run away with her. She had a mental picture of a trunk full of beautiful dresses, probably a few magnificent jewels, and then —some papers. She had read of such things! In books the papers often told of money concealed some place, of wills, or of some rich relative, and the stories all ended with "they lived happily ever after."

Oh, maybe there would be enough money to get that beautiful twenty-five hundred dollar fur coat she had seen that morning, or would she rather have that platinum and diamond pin? Of course, there would be enough for both, and a Stutz roadster, too.

In this way she planned the disposal of the money she was soon to get. Her father bought her everything she wanted, but she thought it would be wonderful to have thousands of dollars all her own. In her excitement she nearly hit a child on her way home, but after what seemed to her an eternity, she rushed into the drawing room, there she found her stepmother. The latter proved to be as excited as Virginia when she heard the story. "I am sure she knows," concluded the girl, "because she asked me about Harry, Bob, James, Ruth and Mary."

"But, Virginia, dear," Mrs. Brady said, "I know of no such trunk around here. The trunks in the store-room are empty. I am sure of that because we used them all when we went to the mountains last summer. That is the only place in which I should know to look. She certainly couldn't have made a mistake though, because she said, 'You know a Harry, a Robert, and a James, don't you?' and there are Harry Moore, Bob Wiley, and James Stephens. You remember the boy who visited Johnson's last summer. You said she asked you if you hadn't a friend by the name of Ruth, and also one by the name of Mary. You know Ruth Crane, whom you used to play with in Cincinnati, and Catharine's first name is Mary, isn't it? Then, too, she said you're going to take a trip, and you're going to Detroit next week. Oh, I'm sure she can't be mistaken. We must search the house."

Mrs. Brady was but a few years Virginia's senior, so she was like a girl friend. They were so interested in their search that they did not notice the time and were still exploring the cellar when Mr. Brady came home to dinner that night.

Of course the only topic of conversation was the fortune. Mr. Brady laughed at his wife and daughter, as they were too excited to eat. However, he became serious when Virginia told about the trunk.

"Yes, my dear," he answered in reply to her question, "your mother did leave an old trunk and some other things. I had them stored away up in the attic several years ago."

"But, father, we have searched the store-room, and all the trunks are empty," insisted the girl.

"I don't mean the store-room. Didn't you ever notice the little door in the ceiling of the maid's room? It is a door to our attic, but I never put anything up there we use very much, because it is too hard to get up and down," Mr. Brady reassured her.

"Everything is working out just as the fortune teller said it would. We must look through the trunk yet tonight," excitedly exclaimed Virginia.

"No," remonstrated her father, "you must wait until morning as there is no light up there, and I'll have to get a ladder."

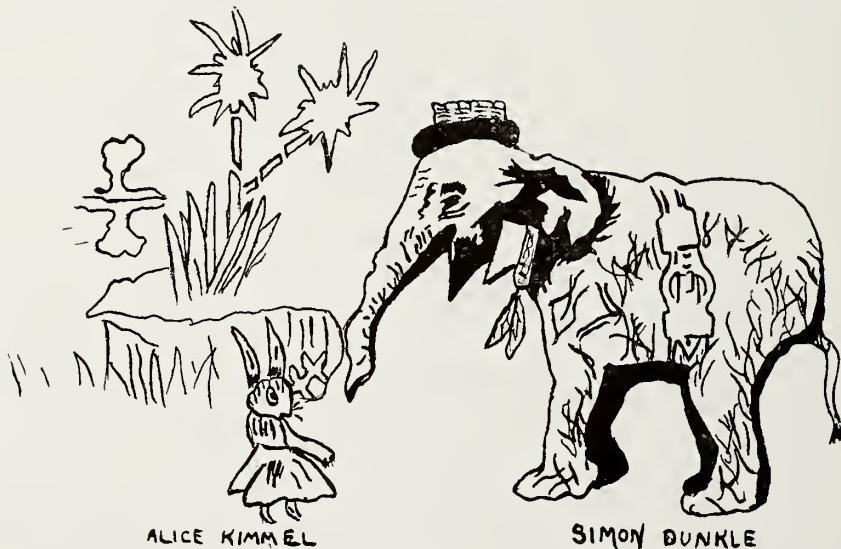

Finally Virginia was induced to wait until morning. Very early she awakened her father, and together they went up to the attic. He left right away and she started upon her errand of exploration.

This was just an ordinary large attic with a low roof. Over near the one small window was the trunk which was to contain all the marvelous things. At any other time she would have dreaded to have crossed such a dusty cob-webby room, but she never hesitated now as she saw the trunk. She did take the time to open the window because she could hardly breathe in the stifling atmosphere.

As she opened the trunk, she gave one prolonged "Oh-oh-h—" There in the till was her mother's wedding dress, veil and everything else that goes with a wedding. She had thought the papers would be in the top, but then, maybe they'd be in the bottom. She carefully examined all the dresses and other pretty thing as she removed them and finally with a great sigh of disappointment she laid the last article in the pile. No jewels or papers!

Still, she decided not to care very much, but to try on all the pretty old things. She carried them down to her room and enjoyed herself for about two hours. She was rather tall, slender and graceful and looked like an old-fashioned portrait. At last there was but one more portrait—a gray broadcloth—which had been her grandmother's. It had large pockets and she immediately thrust her hands into them. A squeal of delight followed, for there was a paper in the right hand pocket. As she took it out she saw written on the outside, "Don't destroy." "Oh mother," she cried, I have found that precious paper at last." She hastily unfolded the paper, and there written in pencil were the words, "Tomato Catsup."

Foot Ball.

Fighting hard throughout the season like determined beasts after prey, G. H. S. turned out a good team this year.

At the first of the season our prospects were very discouraging because we only had four or five old men left from last year (1919). Our first game was with Steele High School of Dayton; this was all one-sided, but at the same time we learned more real football in that game than in any other one of the season. because we were breaking in all new men, and they seemed to realize what responsibilities they had upon them. We never had in the history of the G. H. S. the spirit that was carried throughout the whole year, as it was this year. We also were rather unfortunate to have a couple of our best linemen and backfield men injured early in the season. Our line was very light; it averaged about 145 and our backfield about 148. We never hit a team that our line could not hold for the necessary downs. Every man on the team helped finish up the year in wonderful style.

And in closing let it be stated that while our team this season was not quite as successful as teams of former years, and was not a team of individual stars, it was made up of fast hard workers and hard players who played together all the time. And that is, after all, what makes a team.

Basket Ball

Never before in the history of G. H. S. has Basket Ball been up to the standard this year. We had real spirit, you might say, which was kept up partly by intergroup games. The inter-group basket ball was a great success. We called them groups because there were three teams from each class—First, Second and Freshman. The names were Blue, Orange, Gray and Red. The games were held every Tuesday and Thursday night after school. These games served to bring out and develope much useful talent for this and remaining seasons.

Before we would go into a game our determination was to play a clean game and to win; our motto was: "Be a good loser as well as a good winner." We did not defeat many teams, yet do not forget the fact that in the total number of points we out-scored our opponents; not such a small matter, either. This, combined with good sportsmanship and ambition served to help and hold up our school reputation.

This year we had to work mighty hard and faithfully to keep up our honor, but we kept in mind "Conquer we must" and accomplished more than we dared to hope for, and it was confidence which made the team of 1920 victors in many respects.

TOWNSEND, VERNIE

"In football, basketball and track
We heard them yelling, 'Go it Mac,'
And if you think he didn't do it,
You should have seen him go right to it
He'd shut his teeth and grab the ball—
And fairly fly around the hall;
He doesn't like the Hero stuff
If asked, he'll say this verse is bluff."

MARTIN, "PERKY"

"The hero of a thousand battles."

COPPESS, "BOB"

"Tis well to have a merry heart and to wear a sunny smile."

CLARK, MEYERS

"A lad whose life is one perpetual grin."

JACKLON, EARL

"And then he talks, ye Gods how he would talk."

GILBERT, "Skeeter"

"Some are born great, some achieve greatness."

STOLIZ, "Bob"

"The world knows little of its greatestmen"

TEAFORD, ARNO

"Care will kill a cat,
Therefore, let's be merry."

THE BASKET BALL GROUP

The boys of the High School are divided in four permanent groups: Blue, Orange, Grey and Red. Each year they elect new captains who divide up the Freshmen as evenly as possible. As organized this year each group was represented by three teams, first, second and Freshman teams, each team playing only against teams of its own class. A schedule of 12 games was arranged for every team, making 36 games in all. A lot of pep was displayed, every team doing its best at all times. The race was close between the Blue and Orange; the Blues winning out in the end by a small margin, thus securing the pennant for the year.

Base Ball.

Base Ball is beginning to be a great success in G. H. S. This year we have about fifty fellows working to make the varsity team. At our meetings there has always been an unusually large attendance. This year we are looking forward to the best season in base ball that we have ever had in our G. H. S. At our practice which is held at South Side Park, there is a such a large amount of material that it is a very hard matter to choose a varsity team. At present we have lost one game, but this was not due to the fighting spirit of the team. We had only three evenings of practice before meeting because the weather was not suitable. We played Versailles at home and were defeated by the close score of 6 to 5. After this defeat the varsity men have extended their efforts and have shown rapid improvement in both batting and fielding. On April 2 we journey to Versailles for a return game and we sincerely hope that when we return we will have a different story to tell than we had after our last encounter.

Last year we finished up the base ball season with our percentage up to the 75 per cent mark. Having won three games and lost one. Our first game was with Versailles and we defeated them by a score of 7 to 3 in a hard fight. On the following week we lost our pep and were defeated by Arcanum with but little effort on their part. Score 8 to 3. Next game was the big one of the season. A fast bunch from Piqua were beaten for the first time in five years in a hard fought contest, we outclassed the visitors in the last few innings and the score was 12 to 11. Our next game was with Lewisburg at home. As usual they had a good team and played in top form. Score 6 to 5 in our favor. But this year we hope that we shall be able to do even better than we did last year.

CULBERTSON, HARRY

"Oh, Captain "Cubby" steered his crew,
And of his honors never 'Blew,'
The roughest teams he'd meet with glee
And sail his mates to victory.

This Captain of the valiant 'Nine'
Is filled with quite a spirit fine—
Midst cheers, and e'er the setting sun
Each Friday makes a grand 'home run.'

Field Day.

The field meet of (1919) was a decided success in every respect. In the first place, the day was ideal. In the second place every one, including students and faculty and many patrons, did their utmost to make the day a complete success. Every class was well represented in all of the events and many winners were decided on very close margins. Some good records were made, especially in running and jumping. Of the classes the Seniors won first place which entitled them to the shield. Sophomores 2nd, Juniors 3rd, Freshman 4th.

Of individual students those winning metals were David Meeker, Jessie Brumbaugh, George Studebaker, Katherine Katzenberger, Helen York and Sarah Ross.

TRACK TEAM

The outlook for track this year is rather hopeful, although at the present time the prospects seem pretty poor. It has been somewhat difficult to get the fellows out and get a line on what they can do, and for this reason we have had try-outs in the Gym

We have no one at the pole vault, no disk throwers, no high jumpers but we are lucky enough to have a few good dashes, and long distance runners. We have been trying to get a meet with another school, but we haven't succeeded so far.

The inter-scholastic meet last year at the Fair Ground was a great success. We are looking forward to that end and we can judge from what kind of material we have. We hope to win this meet.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

The girls of G. H. S. wishing to vary from the precious years, chose inter-class games in preference to the group system.

Although the practice was somewhat hindered by the change of Physical Education teachers, the girls enthusiasm and class spirit surpassed that of other years.

Besides their own athletics, the girls took unbounded interest in the varsity games. The vim of their cheering lead the boys to do their utmost to uphold the traditions of old G. H. S.

Only two games of Basket Ball have been played up to the present time. The Seniors defeated the Juniors by a score of 13 to 9. And the Sophomores won by the score of 12 to 6.

The teams of the respective classes were:

STATUARY.

GRANDMA SAYS:

That the Senior boy who used the eyebrow pencil before having his picture taken should not say anything about his girl using her powder puff too much.

That it certainly does beat all the way some Seniors use their imagination when telling those supposed to be Current Events in History Class.

That there are rumors going around G. H. S. that some Seniors' rings signify more than graduation.

Esther Hughes giving current event in Histoty: "All animals have some form of communication. For instance, all that 'deers' have to do to communicate is to look in each others eyes,

If a certain young Junior would get his mind off of a certain young Senior, the Sibylline Club might fare better.

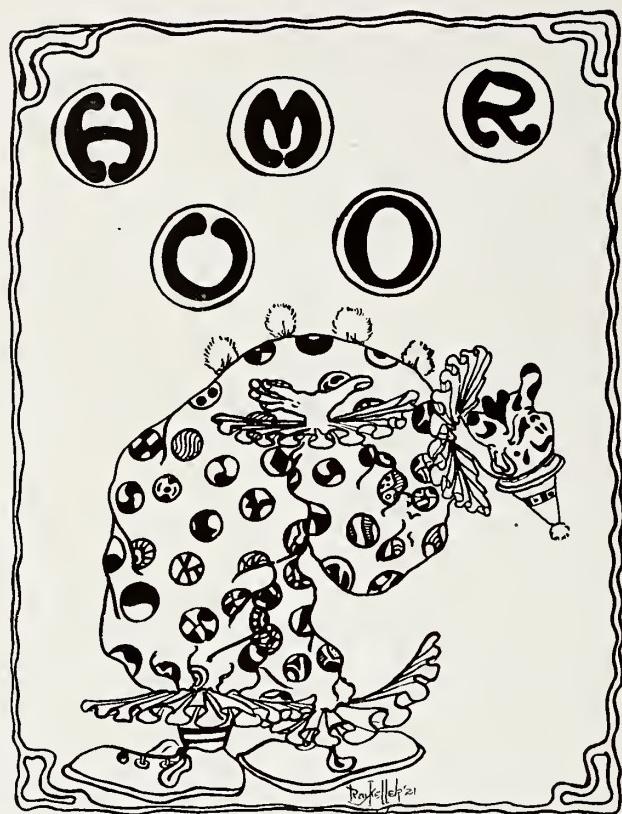

We know a certain Senior who used to be very independent, but now he walks out over the hill very regularly.

The young Sophomore couple from Coletown is still as thick as last year—looks serious.

Pilly & Co. is still going strong.

If all the material handed in for the Annual was used we would have to sell them for 5 bucks each. Keep the good work going.

The High School is improving. We will have a modern school yet. All we need now is a new school building.

June Pearce--History to Mr. French:
"Say, Mr. French, why did I get a "D" this month when the month you got married
you gave me a "B?"

Mr. French—"Well, we shall not talk of that now."

Mr. Metzgar — Harry, what is a heart?"

Harry—"I forgot."

Mr. M.—"Did you ever know?"

Harry—"No, I never knew it, that is the reason I forgot it."

Mr. Metzgar was pressing a book to his heart.

Lois Booker—"Oh, I wish I were that book."

"I was in the barn setting a hen" said one.

And I was in the loft setting a saw," said another.

"And I was in grandma's room setting the clock," said the third.

"And I was up in the pantry setting a trap," said the fourth.

"You're a fine set," remarked the farmer.

"And where were you?" he asked, turning to the youngest.

"I was on the doorstep setting still!" was the reply.

Senior—"Do you want me to go through college?"

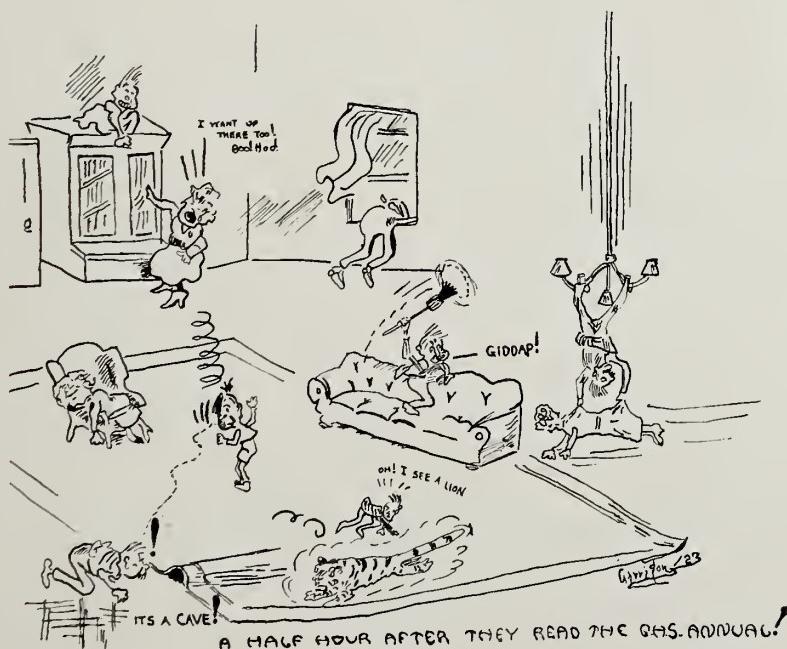

Dad—"You might as well; you have gone through every thing else."

SLAM

An organ recital will be given on Tuesday at 1 o'clock by Miss Anderson. On Wednesday the church will be closed until further notice, for repairs of the organ.

Dad—"I won't have you marrying a mere clerk. You tell that young man to keep away until he has an interest in his firm."

Senior—"Why dad, he has that now. The manager told him he'd have to take some interest in his work or he'd loose his job, and he's already done it."

Motive

Doing one's best requires the force of deeper motives than the mere desire for commercial success. There must be, deep down, the purpose to achieve something that will contribute to the common good.

The motive which has actuated The Palace Store has been the desire to render a great human service by distributing merchandise which will cultivate and give you a desire to appreciate worthy refinements, and so making its patrons love the genuine, the good, and the true.

READ THIS TWICE

If these jokes are old and rotten,
And full of cobwebs and old cotton,
Don't get sore and blame the Staff;
When you see a joke that makes you laugh,
And roar, and shake and grin,
Just write it down and hand it in.

Our idea of a good time is trying to get an excuse for being absent when we stayed home because it rained.

We columists may dig and toil, until our finger tips are sore,
But some "poor fish" is sure to say, I've heard that joke before.

Lessons are like friends; you have to study them to learn them.

A. R.—"Did you hear the story of the dirty windows?"
Pug—"No, what is it?"

A. R.—"Oh! no use in telling it, you couldn't see through it anyway."

Oh teachers, we pray that you will heed
Our earnest appeal in the hour of need;
We promise to obey you with the meekness of lambs;
If you'll only go easy in the coming exams.

Mr. Roehm—"If you love work, why don't you find it?"
Fred—"Well, love is blind you know."

Gosh I feel sick, I guess I won't go to school today.

A question of an English test was: "Give a tense moment in 'Julius Caesar.' "

Mary Calderwood—"Does that mean to tell what tense it is?"

Reading in English, the class was given a list of words for the next day's assignment. One of them was "Habitual."

Bob O'Brien—"Is that what the preacher read at a funeral?"

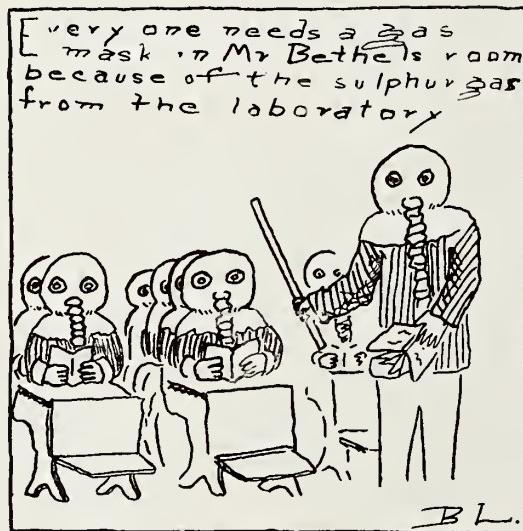

Miss Davenport (In English) "Myers, you may tell the story of Maude Muller."

Myers—"Maude wished that she could be the Judge's husband."

John—"Why, I think those songs made Bryon popular."

Vernie Mac: "Yes, they were 'Popular Songs.' "

Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these---exams again.

Sheeney—"I'd like to give him a piece of my mind."

Helen—"Hold on, Sheeney, you can't afford to give away any."

P. H.—"You're the breath of my life."

M. W.—"Oh, shut up and hold your breath."

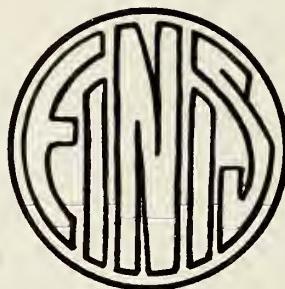

There's one good thing about flunking—you don't have to buy new books.

Martin—"Hey, Clyde, do you know Si Dunkle?"

Clyde—"Yes, he sleeps next to me in Latin."

WATCH FOR OUR ANNUAL IN 1931-1932.

*If you are glad you have reached the end of this book—
You are not nearly so glad as we.
If you are disappointed in it—
Your disappointment cannot equal ours.
If you are pleased with it our ambitions and hopes and Prayers have been realized.*
